

There's a BIOBLITZ heading your way, and it's landing in Forest Park! What is a BIOBLITZ? It is an engaging scientific and educational event designed to help raise awareness of the incredible biodiversity that exists in the park and the importance of conserving and protecting the unique diversity.

We have gathered the finest scientists around, as well as the youngest scientists, to conduct this biological survey to count as many species as possible in a 24-hour time period, from 3:00 pm Friday, June 4 through 3:00 pm Saturday, June 5, 2010. Students from Duggan Middle School will team up with local and regional professionals in an overnight campout that will produce results useful in determining the park's ecological future.

If you are planning to visit the park on Saturday, please stop by our base camp, located on the ball field complex, to see the results of their findings for yourself on our giant tally board. Who knows...maybe YOU will be invited to participate in this outdoor adventure next year!
