Introduction

The City of Springfield has received a special allocation to our Community Development Block Grant funds that will be used to assist in preventing the spread and respond to the social, physical, mental and economic impacts of coronavirus (COVID-19). This allocation was authorized by the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (CARES Act), Public Law 116-136 on March 27, 2020.

Springfield is advancing into the fourth month of the COVID-19 pandemic. Over that time, city government and Springfield residents have been humbled by the incredible response of our frontline organizations and nonprofits that have been working to assist our neighbors and families who are most vulnerable to the COVID-19 virus itself and its many negative ancillary impacts.

For so many non-profit organizations, COVID-19 is more than just a daily struggle; it has become a critical economic period. The financial and service delivery decisions made by many organizations today will determine their ability to sustain themselves through the pandemic. The pandemic has affected all non-profit revenue streams and all potential sources of support, making its impact far deeper and more challenging than the typical economic challenges confronted by most non-profits.

Nonprofits are relatively small: 88 percent spend less than $500,000 annually for their work. Thus, the “typical” nonprofit is community-based, serving local needs. Relatively few nonprofits have an endowment and most have limited reserves — about 50 percent have less than one month of cash reserves.

Hospitals, community health centers, and senior living communities will continue to be hit hard by the coronavirus. Most of those organizations are charitable nonprofits. Many other nonprofits however, have been called on to feed, house, and care for people whose lives have been upended by closures, job loss, and sickness.

This application is open to non-profit organizations that can evidence an economic need, but continue in some form to serve Springfield’s low/moderate income (LMI) residents by providing critical community needs the demand for which has risen since the start of the pandemic.

Basic eligibility of applicants/programming includes:

- Non-profit public service dollars to address basic needs for LMI residents.
- Funds awarded to Springfield based agencies that evidence: the capacity to administer the CDBG funds and a clear economic need for assistance in response to COVID-19.
- Springfield focused programming to support COVID-19 response activities may include but are not limited to public health, mental health, shelter & housing, food stability services, job training, educational services, handicapped services, anti-poverty assistance, senior services, substance abuse prevention, domestic violence services, veteran services, youth recreational services, childcare services, Springfield COVID-19 impact research.
- Application requests may not exceed $25,000.

2. Assist Springfield based non-profits that were required to be closed or had limited capacity, and are now in reopening phases. We encourage non-profits that need to make necessary safety improvements to their organization due to Covid-19 to consider applying.
3. This is a Public Service grant; therefore, the use of grant funds will be dedicated to assist in the delivery of COVID -19 essential services to Springfield's LMI population.
4. This grant is focused on smaller community based non-profits that evidence economic hardship related to COVID-19.

- Non-Profits need to evidence that they have the requisite accounting and administrative support to manage the CDBG grant award.
